Market Letter for the Past Week.

Kansas City Market Letter

(By J. A. Riekart, Correspondent)

Kansas City Stock Yards, May 11, 1914. It was a steady cattle market last week, except on heavy fed steers, which lost 10 to 15 cents. Better fills offset the decline on those that sold lower, and increased net returns on such cattle as remained steady. Veal calves advanced 25 to 50 cents. The supply today is 8000 head, including 31 cars in the quarantine division, and the market is steady on the bulk of the offerings, a few steer sales to lower. Light weight native steers sold at 9.00 today, bulk of the natives, 7.60 to 8.60. The Gebhardt Colorados brought 8.70 and the Riley Colorados 8.75 today, same price in each instance as a week ago. The Karsch steers from the Longnot field brought 8.40. Warmup Texas and Oklahoma steers brought 7.15 to 7.75 in the quarantine division today, some heifers 7.50, cows 6.25. Cows and heifers in the native division are unchanged, though on a more shaky basis, particularly middle grade heifers. Some of the Solt heifers from Northern Kansas had an offer of 8.60 here last Tuesday, which could not be secured later in the day, so the heifers were sent to St. Louis, where they sold at 8.40. Stockers have been selling up to 8.50, feeders 8.10, with few cattle under 7.25. Stockers and feeders are called steady today but astute traders can see a break coming and predict 75 cents lower prices within ten days. The fat cattle outlook lacks bloom, chiefly account of industrial inactivity, though supply figures are bullish. Commission advice to shippers is to unload heavy cattle, but to make yearlings good. Hogs regained 15 to 20 cents last week, but another decline was inaugurated late in the week, which is continued today, market 10 to 15 lower. A long string of hogs sold at the top today, 8.32½, and everything sold within the narrow range of 8.15 to 8.32½. Packers are a resolute pack of bears, and display no animation after they have secured enough hogs to supply fresh meat.

They claim the product is not moving, despite recent breaks, and it will require reduced retail prices to start it, if it is to move this month. Necessary summer and fall stocking up will move the stuff later, but in the meantime it is a burdensome load. Sheep and lambs advanced 50 cents last week, on light receipts. A good run of 18,000 head arrived to-day, largely Texas stock. Spring lambs and fed Colorados are steady to-day, all selling together at $8.40 to $8.75, but Texas muttons are 10 to 15 lower, though active, wethers at $5.45 to $5.75, ewes and wethers $5.10 to $5.35, yearlings $5.75 to $6.50, goats $3.50 to $4.25.

O. L. Hart and Chas. Babbitt, of Flagstaff, were in town Thursday, having just returned from a trip to Springville on cattle business. They left for their home Thursday morning in Mr. Hart's auto. Mr. Hart says that he will return in about two weeks with two carloads of blooded bulls which he will offer for sale to the local stockmen.—Holbrook News.

TO STUDY INSECT AND EROSION PROBLEM

The Forest Service has completed plans for the study of damage to timber trees in Arizona and New Mexico from bark beetles, this study will be made by an expert who has just completed his training at Cornell University. While no attack has yet been reported to the District office, it is desired to study the characteristics of dangerous insects in order that precautionary measures may be taken.

A study of erosion is also planned owing to excessive grazing, especially by goats. In the vicinity of Cuba, New Mexico, erosion has already reached a dangerous stage, but the study is not to be confined to that locality. Every forest in the district will be canvassed in an endeavor to take steps to prevent the damage becoming so great that the agricultural future of fertile valleys may be endangered.
